

Securities Trading Policy

Adopted pursuant to a resolution of the Board of Directors dated 13 November 2018

Scope

This Securities Trading Policy of International Game Technology PLC (“IGT” or the “Company”) applies to all employees, consultants, officers and directors with respect to engaging in transactions in IGT securities and securities of other publicly traded companies. This Policy explains the prohibitions against “insider trading” in the federal securities laws and establishes the Company’s policies and procedures to promote and monitor compliance with those laws.

Persons Covered. As an employee, consultant, officer or director of IGT or its subsidiaries, this Policy applies to you. The same restrictions that apply to you also apply to your family members who reside with you, anyone else who lives in your household and any family members who do not live in your household but whose transactions in the Company’s securities are directed by you or are subject to your influence or control, such as parents or children who consult with you before they trade in the Company’s securities (those persons are referred to as related persons). This Policy also applies to entities that you influence or control, including corporations, partnerships or trusts.

Transactions Covered. Except as otherwise provided, this Policy applies to all transactions in IGT securities, including ordinary shares, options for ordinary shares and any other securities IGT may issue from time to time, such as preferred stock, warrants and convertible notes and debentures, as well as to derivative securities relating to any such securities, whether or not issued by the Company, such as exchange-traded options. This policy refers to all of the foregoing as IGT “securities.”

This Policy also applies to (1) transactions that occur after you cease to be an employee, consultant, officer or director of IGT for as long as you are aware of Material Nonpublic Information, (2) “tipping” (as described further below), (3) transactions in any other securities (including non-IGT securities) for which you are aware of Material Nonpublic Information.

Policy

This Policy describes the general prohibition on insider trading applicable to all persons subject to the Policy, and also additional restrictions on individuals who have been informed in writing that they have been designated as “insiders” by the General Counsel or the Chief Financial Officer or the Company Secretary. Insiders include members of the Company’s Board of Directors, its officers as well as certain employees who are likely to be aware of “Material Nonpublic Information” (see section entitled “What is Material Nonpublic Information?” below) due to the nature of their work at IGT, including, but not limited to, the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Accounting Officer, Treasurer, General Counsel, Company Secretary, Head of Financial Planning and all employees who directly report to the Chief Executive Officer.

Responsibilities

Individual Responsibility. Persons subject to this Policy have ethical and legal obligations to maintain the confidentiality of information about IGT and not to engage in transactions in IGT securities while being aware of Material Nonpublic Information. You are responsible for complying with this Policy and ensuring that any of your related persons or any entities you control also comply with this Policy. In all cases, the responsibility for determining whether you are aware of Material Nonpublic Information rests with you. While the Company provides policies, procedures and training on insider trading, no action on the part of IGT, or any employee, officer or director pursuant to this Policy constitutes legal advice or insulates you from liability under applicable securities laws. You could be subject to severe legal penalties and disciplinary action by the Company for any conduct prohibited by this Policy or applicable securities laws, as described below in more detail under the heading “Penalties for Noncompliance.”

This is an electronically controlled and issued document. Hard copy printouts must be verified against the electronic revision prior to use.

Definitions

What is “Material Nonpublic” Information?

“Material” information is information that a reasonable investor would consider important in deciding whether to purchase, sell or hold a security, or information that is likely to significantly alter the total mix of publicly available information about IGT. Any information that could reasonably be expected to affect the market price of a security is likely to be considered material. Material information can be positive or negative and can relate to any aspect of IGT’s business or to any type of IGT securities, whether debt, equity or a hybrid.

The determination of whether information was material will be viewed in hindsight, so any questions concerning the materiality of particular information should be resolved in favor of materiality and trading should be avoided.

“Nonpublic” information is information that is not available to the general public. In order for information to be considered public, it must be widely disseminated in a manner making it generally available to investors, including through the issuance of a press release, a webcast or a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”). In addition, even after a public announcement of material information, a reasonable period of time must elapse in order for the market to react to the information. Generally, one full trading day after the public release of material information via the issuance of a press release, a webcast conference call or an SEC filing should elapse before trading. By “full trading day” it is meant a full regular trading session of the securities exchange on which the Company’s ordinary shares are listed.

If you have any questions about whether certain information is material or nonpublic, please consult the General Counsel or the Company Secretary.

Purpose

Violations of insider trading laws can, and often do, result in criminal investigations, prosecutions, disgorgement of ill-gotten trading profits, fines and prison sentences. Accordingly, your compliance with this Policy is of the utmost importance for both you and the Company. Questions regarding the prohibition on insider trading or concerning this Policy should be directed to the Company’s General Counsel or to the Company Secretary.

Statement of Policy

Rule 10b-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the “Exchange Act”), prohibits trading securities in any public company on the basis of Material Nonpublic information. Even if an employee, consultant, officer, or director is merely aware of non-public information at the time of a purchase or sale of the insider’s stock, the insider is still deemed to have used the material non-public information in making the trade and it will constitute a violation of civil, and possibly criminal, laws against insider trading.

- No person subject to this Policy who is aware of Material Nonpublic Information relating to the Company may directly or indirectly:
- Engage, or attempt to engage, in transactions in IGT securities, except as otherwise specified in this Policy under the headings “Transactions Excluded from Policy”;
- Recommend or induce the purchase or sale of any IGT securities;
- Disclose Material Nonpublic Information to persons (a) within the Company whose jobs do not require them to have that information, or (b) outside of the Company, including family, friends, business associates and investors, unless any such disclosure is made in accordance with the Company’s disclosure and external communications policies; or
- Assist anyone engaged in any of the above activities.

In addition, no person subject to this Policy who, in the course of working for IGT or its subsidiaries, learns of Material Nonpublic Information about a company with which IGT or its subsidiaries do business, may trade in that company’s securities until the information becomes public or is no longer material. Such companies include current or prospective customers or suppliers of IGT, companies with which we may be negotiating a major transaction and companies that may be a party to potential corporate transactions, such as an acquisition, investment or sale.

Stock sales or purchases that may seem necessary or justifiable to you for independent reasons (such as the need to raise money for an emergency expenditure), or stock sales or purchases for a small amount, are NOT exceptions to this Policy. The securities laws do not recognize any mitigating circumstances. Further, even the appearance of an improper transaction must be avoided to preserve IGT’s reputation for adhering to the highest standards of conduct.

In addition, you may not engage in or attempt to engage in market manipulation. Manipulation is intentional conduct designed to deceive investors by controlling or artificially affecting the market for a security. Manipulation can involve a number of techniques to affect the supply of, or demand for, a stock. They include: spreading false or misleading information about a company; improperly limiting the number of publicly-available shares; or rigging quotes, prices or trades to create a false or deceptive picture of the demand for a security. Those who engage in manipulation are subject to various civil and criminal sanctions.

Transactions Excluded from Policy

This Policy does not apply to the following transactions, except as specifically noted:

- Stock Option Exercises. This Policy does not apply to the exercise of an employee or director stock option or to an award recipient’s use of shares delivered or withheld from the exercise to cover the cost of the option exercise or the satisfaction of tax withholding obligations. However, this Policy does apply to any sale of the underlying shares or to a cashless option exercise through a broker, which entails the sale of a portion of the underlying shares on the market to cover the costs of exercise or the resulting taxes.

- Restricted Stock Unit Awards. This Policy does not apply to the vesting of restricted stock units, or the exercise of a tax withholding right pursuant to which you elect to have the Company withhold ordinary shares to satisfy tax withholding obligations upon the vesting of any restricted stock unit. However, this Policy does apply to any sale of ordinary shares received by you as a result of the vesting.
- Other Similar Company Plan Transactions. Any other purchase of IGT securities from the Company or sales of IGT securities to the Company are not subject to this Policy.
- Bona Fide Gifts. Bona fide gifts of IGT securities are not transactions subject to this Policy.

Penalties for Noncompliance

Federal securities laws, as well as EU laws, prohibit the purchase or sale of securities while aware of Material Nonpublic Information as well as the disclosure of Material Nonpublic Information to others who then trade in a company's securities (sometimes called "tipping"). Insider trading violations are pursued vigorously by the SEC and U.S. Attorneys as well as the laws of foreign jurisdictions. Punishment for insider trading violations is severe, and may include significant fines, being prohibited from serving as a director or officer and imprisonment.

Failure to comply with this Policy may also subject you to Company-imposed sanctions, up to and including dismissal for cause, whether or not the failure to comply with this Policy results in a violation of law. A violation of law, or even questionable conduct that leads to an official investigation that does not result in prosecution, can tarnish an individual's reputation and irreparably damage a career.

Prohibition of Short Sales

Short sales of IGT securities (i.e., the sale of a security that the seller does not own) may evidence an expectation on the part of the seller that the securities will decline in value, and therefore have the potential to signal to the market that the seller lacks confidence in the Company's prospects. In addition, short sales may reduce a seller's incentive to seek to improve the Company's performance. For these reasons, short sales of IGT securities are prohibited.

Rule 10b5-1 Plans

Rule 10b5-1 under the Exchange Act provides an affirmative defense from insider trading liability to a person who enters a trading plan for transactions in IGT securities that meets the conditions specified in Rule 10b5-1.

- A Rule 10b5-1 plan (or any amendment or modification thereto) must be entered into with good faith and at a time when the person is not aware of Material Nonpublic Information.
- The plan must either specify the amount, pricing and timing of transactions in advance or delegate discretion on these matters to an independent third party, such as a broker-dealer. A written formula, algorithm or computer program can be used to select the amount, pricing and timing of transactions.
- Once the plan is adopted, the person must not exercise any subsequent influence over the amount of securities to be traded (including by refusing to exercise stock options as of the date contemplated by the Rule 10b5-1 plan), the price at which they are to be traded or the date of the trade.

A dividend reinvestment plan may be set up as a Rule 10b5-1 plan. Note that a standing or limit order does not, by itself, qualify as a Rule 10b5-1 plan.

Any insider, as defined below, must receive prior approval from the General Counsel or Company Secretary prior to adopting, amending or terminating any Rule 10b5-1 plan.

Additional Restrictions Applicable to Insiders

In addition to the general prohibitions on insider trading described above that apply to all persons subject to this Policy, directors, officers and certain other employees who have been notified of their designation as “insiders” are subject to additional restrictions on trading. The provisions below will govern to the extent that any such requirement is more restrictive than the requirements set forth above.

Trading Black Out Periods. The Company prohibits insiders from trading in the Company’s securities during a period of time beginning on the earlier of (i) nine days before the last day of each fiscal quarter; or (ii) or thirty (30) days before the release of any interim or year-end earnings, in accordance with the European Union Market Abuse Regulations for so long as the Company is legally subject thereto (“MAR”), until one full trading day has elapsed following the release of quarterly and year-end earnings, or as otherwise set by the Company’s General Counsel or Company Secretary. The Company may also impose trading black-out periods at other times (the “trading black out period”). The Company will periodically issue detailed guidance and procedures to insiders subject to the trading black out period for trading in IGT securities. Trading only during open window periods minimizes the potential violation of insider trading laws because material financial information has just been released to the public. From time to time, insiders may also be advised that no trading will be permitted until further notice. In addition, no member of the Board of Directors or any of the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Accounting Officer, Treasurer, General Counsel, Company Secretary, Head of Financial Planning or any employee who directly reports to the Chief Executive Officer, may purchase, sell, or otherwise engage in transactions in securities of the Company without obtaining prior clearance of the transaction from the General Counsel or the Company Secretary (who will be in charge of releasing pre-trading clearance to each other).

Market Abuse Regulations. In accordance with MAR, which currently applies to the Company because certain series of its notes are traded on European markets, persons discharging managerial responsibilities (being persons who are (a) members of the administrative, management or supervisory body of the Company; or (b) senior executives who have regular access to Material Nonpublic Information and power to take managerial decisions affecting the future developments and business prospects of the Company) must notify the Company Secretary, by no later than the following day, of transactions by them, or by persons closely associated with them, in European publicly traded securities of the Company above €5,000 (alone or in aggregate within a calendar year) so that the Company can fulfil its legal disclosure obligations and report such transactions as appropriate to the relevant European markets. European markets include EU regulated markets, multilateral trading facilities and organized trading facilities. You must inform CorporateSecretary@igt.com (a) if you think there has been a leak of Material Nonpublic Information (whether from the Company or elsewhere); and (b) of any changes in your personal details (for example, name, personal address, personal telephone numbers, the office in which you are based). The Company is required under MAR to maintain a list of persons who have access to Material Nonpublic Information either on a permanent basis or on a transactional basis. Each new person designated as an “insider” in accordance with this policy will be informed in writing and will be required to acknowledge that he or she understands the legal and regulatory duties of an insider and is aware of the sanctions for noncompliance. The Company Secretary team are responsible for: (i) informing such persons that they have been, or are no longer, designated as insiders as soon as reasonably practical after such persons have been so designated; and (ii) updating the list of insiders on a regular basis.

Hedging and Other Derivative Transactions. Transactions in publicly traded options, swaps, warrants, convertible securities, stock appreciation rights, similar rights or other derivative securities designed to profit or share in any profit derived from any increase or decrease in the value of the Company's securities are generally short-term in nature and may give the public the perception that insiders are not focused on the long-term performance of the Company. Certain forms of hedging transactions are complex, may be perceived negatively by the public and can present unique insider trading risks. Therefore, IGT prohibits insiders from engaging in any such transactions.

Margin Accounts and Pledging. Insiders may not purchase IGT securities on margin, borrow against any account in which IGT securities are held, or pledge IGT securities as collateral for a loan. Insiders who wish to pledge IGT securities as collateral for a loan must notify the General Counsel or the Company Secretary prior to the execution of documents evidencing the proposed pledge.

Standing and Limit Orders. Standing and limit orders (except under approved Rule 10b5-1 plans as described below) create heightened risks for insider trading violations similar to the use of margin accounts. There is no control over the timing of purchases or sales that result from standing instructions to a broker, and as a result the broker could execute a transaction when a director, officer or other employee is in possession of Material Nonpublic Information. The Company therefore strongly discourages insiders from placing standing or limit orders on IGT securities beyond the trading day on which the order is placed within an open trading window period.

Rule 10b5-1 Trading Plans. All Rule 10b5-1 plans must be adopted during an open trading window period and pre-cleared in advance by the General Counsel or the Company Secretary. Trades executed pursuant to a pre-approved Rule 10b5-1 plan do not require further approval and are not subject to the Company's trading black out period, as Rule 10b5-1 provides an affirmative defense from insider trading liability under the federal securities laws for trading plans that meet certain requirements. In addition, the following conditions apply to insiders:

- There must be a minimum 45-day waiting period from the date of the adoption of a plan until the first possible transaction under the plan.
- A plan must have a minimum term of one year, unless such plan has trades based solely on price and all securities subject to such plan have been traded in accordance with its terms.
- An insider can enter into only one Rule 10b5-1 plan at a time.
- Once a Rule 10b5-1 plan has been adopted, the insider should stick to the plan and try to refrain from making any amendments to the plan. An insider may not make more than one amendment to a Rule 10b5-1 plan in any 12-month period; and an insider may not amend or terminate a Rule 10b5-1 plan during a blackout period or while he or she is aware of Material Nonpublic Information.
- If an insider terminates a Rule 10b5-1 plan, he or she may not adopt a new Rule 10b5-1 plan for a period of six months.
- The Company may terminate or suspend an insider's Rule 10b5-1 plan at any time if the Company determines that it is in the Company's best interests to do so.
- Rule 144 Restrictions. The federal securities laws, including Rule 144 under the Securities Act of 1933, impose additional trading restrictions on executive officers, directors and major shareholders.
